THE BUTNER ARROW

THE DAILY BULLETIN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA WING ENCAMPMENT

VOLUME 2, ISSUE 1

SATURDAY, 18 JUNE 2011

IT BEGINS!

On this day in June, ninety-eight cadets signed up to attend the 2011 NC Wing Summer Encampment.

Whether the cadets came to Butner just to be with their friends or if the cadets came to get their Mitchell award is debatable. The cadets who have now been divided into six flights are anxious to get ready, but first, they must unpack, setup the barracks, and study their OIs (operating instructions) before they can learn new things. There are six flights and two squadrons that teach the subjects of leadership, aerospace education, ground team, mission radio operating and flight line marshalling. Each flight does their own unique specialty. Along the way the cadets will be rappelling, challenging the obstacle course, shooting firearms under supervision on the range, and learning team work. The first thing the cadets do at encampment is to report in to headquarters. The reporting procedure is as follows: the cadet must stand in a ripple line in front of the door he or she is entering, the cadet approaches the desk and salutes saying, "Cadet (insert name) reporting as ordered Sir, Ma'm, Sergeant, or Chief." the officer or NCO then returns the salute and sends the cadet to the medical desk, medical then checks the cadet's CAP Form 60 and sends the cadet to the check-out desk to receive the Cadet Handbook. The cadet then departs for his or hers barracks.

WEATHER FORECAST

DANGER—

Sunday High: 95F

Partly cloudy with scattered showers and storms possible. Highs in the lower to mid 90s. The showers will be scattered in nature so not everyone will get wet. At least a slight chance for showers and storms is in the forecast for most afternoons through Friday of next week.

REMEMBER TO HYDRATE!

PARTNERS IN TRAINING

The 2011 Encampment is again being supported this year by a wide range of both State and Federal agencies: The North Carolina Dept. of Crime Control and Public Safety; The North Carolina Division of Emergency Management; the Federal Bureau of Prisons, the North Carolina National Guard; the North Carolina Division of Alcohol Law Enforcement, and the Butner Department of Public Safety. These agencies are providing a wide range of activities including firearms training, POD training, fire extinguisher training, rappelling, obstacle course, and others. The North Carolina

Wing Aerospace Education Directorate is providing instruction for the newly designated Aerospace Education flight, including a model rocketry program, which will see rockets being launched from the landing zone on the 1,000 yard firing range.

THE FIRST MEAL OF THE ENCAMPMENT

The 2011 NC Wing Encampment's first cooked meal went off without a hitch. Well, mostly, save for some scattered plastic-ware. The first meal consisted of baked chicken, boiled potatoes, bread, lima beans, and honeybuns for dessert. Served with this excellent meal was lemonade, iced-tea, and Gatorade.

c/Maj. Christina North prepares to receive a plate from Lt Col Lucy Davis, CAP Division, NC Dept of Crime Control and Public Safety. Serving alongside Lt Col Davis are Lt Col Leslie Ingram and Maj. Sankey Blanton.

Moving down the chow-line.

Lunchtime brought Meals Ready-to-Eat to everyone's palate once again. Thanks to the generosity of the N.C. Division of Emergency Management, a supply of civilianized MRE's was delivered on Friday. The selection of tasty entrées included Spaghetti and Chicken Tetrazzina, among others.

STAFF WELCOME

Captain Staples

Captain Staples is our new senior staff member for the 2011 encampment. He has been in Civil Air Patrol for 10 years, and he says that the rest of the staff are awesome at what they do and that everything is just squared away.
